Another "Radical Congress on the Verge of the Government!"

The Elections.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—An immense vote was polled in this city at State election yesterday. At this hour it seems probable that Geary has 21,000 majority, and that eighteen Union Congressmen are elected. Both gains are in the Fifth District and John Couch in the First District. Unofficial returns, with only ward to hear from are—Geary 21,12. Cooper 16,344.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—In this county the Union ticket has 3,000 majority. Eggleston has been defeated in the 3d District by over 1,000 majority. Returns received from over half the State show Brough's majority will be over 30,000. Returns for the state show a large Republican gain. Total majority is less than 40,000 at last accounts. Union Gain in 5th District and John Couch in the 1st District. Unofficial returns, with only ward to hear from are—Geary 21,12. Cooper 16,344.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—In this county the Union ticket has 3,000 majority. Eggleston has been defeated in the 3d District by over 1,000 majority. Returns received from over half the State show Brough's majority will be over 30,000. Returns for the state show a large Republican gain. Total majority is less than 40,000 at last accounts. Union Gain in 5th District and John Couch in the 1st District. Unofficial returns, with only ward to hear from are—Geary 21,12. Cooper 16,344.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 10.—[By M.—Republican State ticket has between 50,000 and 60,000 majority. Congressional delegation is unchanged, standing 14 Republicans and 2 Copperheads.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—The entire vote of this city is 8,000. Republican majority is 900 at 2,000. Returns are meagre owing to shortness of operators. Unofficial returns received from the Legislature have gained two. The Republicans have gained one in the Congressional district. Republicans are, however, confident of 15,000 majority in the State and a majority in both branches of the Legislature. Colfax's majority is over 20,000.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Returns from Iowa indicate large Republican majorities. The State of Iowa probably 25,000 and the entire Congressional delegation.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The returns from the Indiana election are meagre and show that it is generally conceded that the Republicans have the Legislature and a majority in the State. The 27th and 28th districts are very close

THIRD READING OF BILLS

S B No —To tax and protect Chinamen residing in Oregon Passed—yeas 10 nays 4

S B No 31—Registry Bill

Mr HUSTON While the bill was before the committee of the whole I offered some objections to it and I desire now to offer something more There are other provisions in this bill which are to my objectionable but more immediately with each other For instance, section 16 is precisely opposite in meaning and effect to sections 5 and 6 The bill if not only faulty in those particulars, objectionable in many of its features but is altogether unnecessary There never has been an election in this State where from the great multiplicity of provisions in relation to elections and the complications of the law it has not been found difficult to make legal returns without going out of every ten books of election and have found it impossible to make returns according to law on account of the complications existing in election laws but under this bill the complications will be ten times greater This bill will create great expense also Heretofore this country have been taxed heavily on account of army election expenses but the State has not been called on to pay anything This bill introduces increased expense and another leak upon the State Treasury Owing to the expense, complication of laws, and the unconstitutionality of this bill, I cannot conscientiously vote for it In section 5 there is no oath which a person will feels himself a man can take without feeling him hated I consider this oath a disgrace to the State and a degrading to the man who takes it The friends of this bill have stated that they cannot be secured all the purity of the ballot box What there is in this bill to preserve the purity of the ballot-box I cannot see If I could see it I might be induced to vote for it As it is I should feel that in voting for it I should be heaping stones upon my own head. I cannot consent to place them in my constituents without expressing my protest against enacting the unnecessary burdensome and unconstitutional provisions and incongruities of this bill.

Mr DOLPH I am not acquainted with the constituents of the gentleman from Lane, having never been up on the Long Tom I have refrained, while this bill was before the committee of the whole and through all its stages previous to the third reading, from speaking upon its merits, as I will not now consume the time of the Senate with any long speech I in regard to the objections urged against this bill, I have this to say, that if we are to have a registry law at all, this bill is as simple and as economical as any that can be framed It does not multiply offices nor add any unusual fees I am not able to see the inconsistencies which the gentleman fancies he sees, nor can I see where the enormous expenses are to be made On the contrary, the expenses will be but trifling The County Commissioners and Justices of the Peace, officers already known to the law are to carry its provisions into effect and for their services they are to receive but the usual fees for similar services There is one feature in the bill which will to practice render the expense very trifling The provision requiring prepayment of poll taxes before registration will bring more money into the treasury which is now annually lost by delinquency than the entire cost of registry throughout the State The gentleman objects that there are now many difficulties under existing laws and this will bring more On the contrary, this bill will simplify and render easier and more definite the duties of boards of election It provides for determining in advance of the election who are legal voters and who are not. Under its operation it will be almost impossible for illegal votes to be cast and thus, the bill will obviate the necessity of examining voters, and determining the legality of votes on election day at the polls. The effect of it will be to prevent, in the most all cases, the result to contest, and thus save to the State a great and growing expense. It will avoid all the turmoil at the polls, the illegal voting and expensive contests which now cost the State more than the whole expense of registry under this bill How is it under the old laws? I well recollect how it was in Portland at the last election There the voting was continued through the day and till a late hour in the night, because of the polls being obstructed by irresponsible persons who were, many of them, unknown and not voters The election board were not able to receive all the legal votes and try the rights of challenged parties. It was a continued scene of confusion, and it was impossible, at times for legal voters to get to the polls, and many went away unable to vote How was it in Grant county we are in one precinct there was a mob and violence, men using pistols and knives about the very matters which, by this bill, will be settled before the election day This bill provides that the rights of electors shall be heard and determined before the day of election, so that on that day there will be no occasion for such turmoils and scenes as were enacted at the late election, in the cases I have cited It is contended by the opposition that every body shall come to the polls and vote, and the latter mining all questions as to qualifications at the polls That is the practical consequence of their action to sustain the present laws and defeat this bill The purity of the ballot is of the highest importance to a people like ours where votes are now few It might occur in any one that one vote may determine the political complexion of this Legislative Assembly, one vote determine who shall be United States Senator, that one vote in the Congress might determine the complexion of that body and the destiny of the nation; might embroil the whole country in a bloody war The right of suffrage is no trifling thing Illegal votes are to determine our political affairs—ill-unknown and irresponsible persons may stand at the polls and with the power of the law as it now exists, defraud legal voters of their suffrages; what is it to us that we have in name the elective franchise? I hold that it is important to a fair exercise of the elective franchise, that the qualifications of electors shall be ascertained and determined before the day of election, so that on that day while the boards of election are receiving and recording the expression of the people's will, they shall not also be required to adjudicate questions of qualification. This bill provides for that It does not create any new offices and will not entail so much expense as some gentlemen are quite willing to make, in voting through relief bills. I do not care to discuss the question of the constitutionality of the bill I do not think there can be a question of that. I have briefly answered some of the objections, but do not think it worth a moment's time to answer the objection to its constitutionality

Mr JEFFRIES If this bill has any merits, they have been more than stated by the gentleman from Multnomah The gentleman has helped in this bill to make it 9 o'clock in the night. I do not know what view of the law the people of Portland may have, but in my county we supposed the law prohibited voting after seven o'clock. The gentleman from Multnomah says the law is to prevent riots, mob violence, &c I can't see how it will have such an effect. If men are disposed to riot and have confusion at the polls, they can and will have such things under this law as well as under any other The bill is a species of legislation which I am opposed to It is unnecessary, the voter is already sufficiently restricted in his privileges of franchise The bill increases the difficulties which the elector already has to labor under In my opinion the bill is clearly unconstitutional in prescribing qualifications which are not contained in the Constitution, and which are unknown to it. It makes a different style of voters: it does not make a man a voter. It requires that he shall have paid two dollars poll tax before he can be registered. If a man who may have all the qualifications enumerated in the constitution, happen not to be able to pay his two dollars, he cannot under this bill be registered or exercise his right of suffrage. A man might start from his home to the tax-receiver's office, with his two dollars in his pocket and on the way be set and robbed of his money and deprived of his ability to pay his poll tax, and thus be stripped of his right of suffrage. In such a case I should like to know which is the voter, the man or the two dollars? The Constitution says that a man having certain qualifications is entitled to vote, this bill says that a man having all those qualifications but not being registered, is not a voter Beside being unconstitutional, the bill is not necessary And in relation to those who say they had no effect and degrading to us as a people They say to the world that we have no faith in the people, that we cannot trust them with suffrage without binding them up with pledges of loyalty These kind of oaths are calculated to revive and keep to existence old animosities and hatreds which prevailed during the late civil war I think, now that the war is over, the rebellion crushed, it is time some effort should be made to reconcile the discords of the last few years—time something should be done to do away with the prejudices and grudges that have existed between the people of this country This oath requires a man to swear that he has not voluntarily borne arms against the United States This involves a question of right which has engaged the attention of some of the greatest minds of the country, has agitated the country since the framing of the Constitution: if the United States—the right of a State to withdraw from the Union. This is a question which was agitated at the time the Constitution was framed and the Union formed It will be recollected that New York ratified the Constitution with the express condition that the right to withdraw from the Union should be reserved. The agitation of this question led to the war of secession and the war has decided the question forever against the right of secession Now, let us acknowledge that it is settled and not be erecting safeguards against the repetition of the rebellion which virtually no knowledge that the right of secession has not been settled We should be satisfied now that the right of secession has been settled in our favor; and if men who engaged in the rebellion see fit to come here and settle and vote, why not let them do it and heal up the old wounds and grievances of the disgraceful, disorderly and gradgeful that our people may become once more an united people If such persons are guilty of violating the laws of this State, punish them but not set up onths as qualifications to prohibit the exercising of the right of suffrage. Many of such persons who are loyal could not conscientiously take this oath because they did engage in the rebellion They would be disfranchised by this oath Men who are loyal and honest would be disfranchised while bad men and rebels who engaged in secession volunteering would come here, take the oath and vote I do not think any more lengthy argument necessary now as I stated my objections while the bill was before the committee of the whole, but my conscience will not permit me to vote against all such measures I am impelled by the dictates of my constituents, by my conscience and by my views of the best interests of the State, to vote against this bill It will, in my judgment be no guarantee of the purity of the ballot Only the honest, loyal men among the immigrants to this State would hesitate about taking the oath, while the bad men would not be deterred from voting if you prescribed oaths covering paper four times as long as this entire bill These Senators are evidently doing just what they did not intend to do—they are making a law which will let bad men vote and prevent good men from voting There is another objection to this bill—it disfranchises all those men who engaged in the rebellion, but who have been pardoned and restored to all the rights of a citizen It reverses the pardon of the chief Executive of the nation, and treats all such persons with bad faith. They have been restored to all the rights of citizens by pardon and now if they come here, this bill reverses the pardon and deprives them of the right of suffrage

Mr STERNS If I had not before made up my mind fully to vote for this bill I would vote for it after hearing the remarks of the gentleman A question of history was raised by the gentleman from Polk—the manner in which New York ratified the Constitution I will refer that gentleman to the correspondence on that subject between Mr. Madison and Mr Hamilton in which the latter inquired of Mr Madison what would be the effect of a ratification with such a condition Mr Madison replied without hesitation that a ratification with a condition would be no ratification at all and that the ratification must be absolute In my judgment this bill is the most beneficial measure—the best and most practicable means of perpetuating harmony and peace Benedictis man from Polk says it will disfranchise men who have been engaged in rebellion Yes, it will disfranchise traitor and murderers and they ought to be disfranchised For that reason I shall vote for it. The man who voluntarily entered into a conspiracy against this government and imbrued his hands in the blood of loyal and true men has no right to come up now and plant himself on the same plane of civil and political privileges with the men who defended the Government in its peril and rescued it from the grasp of traitors, conspirators and murderers It is justice to disfranchise such men The subject of pardons has been alluded to, and the gentleman has dwelt somewhat upon the case lately of the pardons granted to bloody handed rebels by the Chief Executive I will say that I regret to see that any one of the pardons granted to bloody handed rebels by the Chief Executive of the nation has been granted I regret to learn that any man who has proven false to all his pledges to the country and broke each his faith to treason to the only party in the Union to the support of the Constitution was unpardoned and is unoffered his self-respect to refuse to break down this Government, and who especially solicited of his time in particular once to vote who ought to be hung. The returns made by the Secretary of State to me show that a number in excess of poll taxes Illegal votes were once given by men who have no means of paying that right to vote The present system of voting by a poll tax A man who has means can pay it and vote, while a man who has not cannot vote The present system of voting by a poll tax is the worst feature of the bill Change that and you will work a healing in our ranks But that is not the figure to the argument The Constitution of the State protected no man from voting, and in time we have had no difficulty in handing the Constitution of the State protected no man from voting, and in time we have had no difficulty in handing the Constitution of the United States to the negro Illegal votes are to be cast by men who never pay a poll tax A man who has means can pay it any day that night vote the Democratic ticket The present system of voting by a poll tax is the worst feature of the bill Change that and you will work a healing in our ranks But that is not the figure to the argument The Constitution of the State protected no man from voting, and in time we have had no difficulty in handing the Constitution of the United States to the negro Illegal votes are to be cast by men who never pay a poll tax A man who has means can pay it any day that night vote the Democratic ticket

Mr OLNEY I move to amend so that the special order should not be superseded

Mr HALLIE moved to indefinitely postpone Mr Olney's motion

Mr HELM and HUMASON spoke against the amendment and in favor of the original resolution

Mr OLNEY The gentleman from Wasco (Mr Humason) gets the original import of this proposition, which he now characterizes as a disturbing element It was introduced to override, in an unparliamentary way, a previous action of the House and it has been a source of trouble ever since The legislation proposed to be affected is now sanctioned by the Constitution of the United States, declares ourselves guilty of fraud is only designed as an obstacle in the way of legislation Now we desire to get it out of the way as soon as possible in a regular and legitimate way That disturbing element was not introduced by this side of the House, and we are now anxious to get it out of the way of our legislation. If it is to be kept here we intend that the fault of it shall rest where it belongs.

Mr AVERY spoke at length in favor of the resolution

Mr WORTH withdrew his resolution

RESOLVE AND BILLS

Mr HENDERSHOTT, from the Committee on Engrossed bills, reported the following bills correctly engrossed

The bill to prohibit intermarriage of races.

The bill to repeal the militia law

The bill in relation to the assessment and collection of taxes.

The bill to repeal the act incorporating Dalles City

The bill to reduce the jury list.

The bill to change the county seat of Baker county

The bill to repeal the act prohibiting swine from running at large in Wasco county

Mr COX, from the Committee on Counties, reported a bill for the organization of Lincoln county and recommended its passage.

Mr STARKWEATHER, from the Committee on Corporations, reported adversely to the petition for the incorporation of Harrisburg as a city

Mr ROSS, from the Committee on Claims, reported a bill for the payment of expenses incurred by Capt. Benjamin Harding in the Indian campaign, of 1855 2. Ordered engrossed and read third time to-morrow

Mr ROLAND, from the Committee on Military Affairs reported back the bill for the relief of J Fullerton with out recommendation, and the bill for the relief of Wm Kapus recommending that it do not pass

Mr CLNEY, from the Judiciary Committee, reported back the bill in relation to pilots for the port of Astoria with amendments to the same. Also, a bill to tax U S bonds—which he was instructed by law of Congress

Mr HALLI, from the same committee, reported, as the recommendation of the minority of the committee, a bill to tax all bonds not expressly exempted by the statute of this State

Mr STARKWEATHER, from the Committee on Corporations, to whom was referred the petition and remonstrance in relation to the incorporation of Lafayette as a city, reported against the incorporation

Mr HALLI, from the same committee, submitted a minority report, recommending a bill incorporate the city of Lafayette. The majority report was adopted

THE U S CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

The hour of 11 o'clock A M having arrived, the SPEAKER announced the question to be on the passage of the resolution introduced on the 6th inst by Mr Humason, declaring the action of the House authorizing the amendment to the Constitution of the United States illegal and fraudulent.

Mr HUMASON argued the points in the resolution, claiming that it did not design to affect the legality of the constitutional amendment, but simply to declare the facts in the case

Mr NIDKLIN moved the previous question, which was ordered—24 ayes to 23 nays

The main question was then put and the resolutions were rejected by the following vote

AYES—Messrs Avery, Baird, Cochran, Cox, Dempsey, Dodge Sandy, Gehr, Helm, Henkershott, Helm, Hindman, Humason, Knisely Lovins, McCoy, Nickell, Rose, Smith, Wells, Whitcaker Withers and Worth—23

NAYS—Messrs. Cole, Davis, Day, Garlick, Garrett, Ghighee, Herron, Hinman, Lamson, Laughlin, Locey, Lockhart, Melvin, Nicklin, Olney, Parris, Roland Rosenbalm, Starkweather, Stouffer, Upton, White, Wizel and Mr Speaker—24

Messrs Avery, Cochran, Cox Garrett, Gehr, Helm Herman, Knisely, Locey, Lockhart, Olney, Roland and Rosenbalm paired on the votes.

Mr LOCKHART'S explanation was, that although he had voted against the amendment at the proper time, he considered it legally ratified and he regarded this resolution contrary to all parliamentary usage and rules

Mr GOODENOUGH in explanation of his vote said In vindication of myself I have a few words to say Other men have assumed and undertaken to dictate how I ought to vote in this House I never believed the sitting members from Grant county entitled to their seats I voted to put them out and men sought to nullify me to make claim to be a lawyer A resolution was introduced concerning the way the constitutional amendment was passed. I voted on it as my conscience dictated at the time I have since learned that I am not a member held good in law until he is turned out. I am now satisfied that the passage of any further resolution on that subject after the question is settled, is uncalled for and I shall therefore vote against the resolution Neither newspaper attacks nor street scolders, nor threatening letters, shall drive me from doing what I believe to be my duty What I think is right I will go for If I err in judgment it is the fault of the head and not of the heart

QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE

Mr OLNEY arose to a question of privilege and called the attention of the House to an article in the DAILY OREGONIAN of the 9th instant, the one entitled "Capital for the Next Political Campaign" and the other entitled "Our Salem Letter" Both relating secretly upon Mr Rosenbaum for his vote of the 6th inst upon Mr Humason's resolution in relation to the Constitutional Amendment He thought the articles in question were too highly to passing censure upon members of the House An outsider could not always understand the motives which act into a member's vote A vote which might appear very favorable might be intended for the very best purposes—to reconsider or to vote differently on a proper occasion He thought the proper course for public journals to pursue in passing judgment upon the conduct of members would be to wait for a conclusion of the term and then judge from a view of all his acts, and not from a particular act

Mr HELM considered the remarks of the gentleman from Clackamas an attempt to interfere with the freedom of the press, and he replied to him on that light

Mr HUMASON arose to a question of privilege and denounced the editorial as making untruthful charges against the Democratic members of the Legislature

On motion of Mr NICKLIN at 12.30 P M adjourned

AFTERNOON—SHARP PRACTICE ON THE POLK COUNTY CASE.

Mr FOUDRAY offered a resolution to postpone the Polk County case until the 20th inst.—the last day of the session.

Mr HUMASON advocated the resolution at some length

Mr OLNEY offered a substitute declaring that no other William Hall than W R Dempsey is entitled to a seat as a representative from Polk county, and that J L Collins and McK Dodson are entitled to the seats

After a great deal of wrangling about points of order, Mr HENDERSHOTT offered a substitute to the substitute, to postpone the whole subject matter until the 20th inst. Lost, 23 to 25—Mr Hindman voting nay, and all other Democratic members voting aye.

Mr LOCKHART We have all had a hard time of it this week in favor of getting home on the 12th inst I have been anxious to get home until the close of the session Now it seems to me that the challenge has been accepted After such conduct on the part of the House will sustain holding over I think an example Cases of fraud have been made against the majority of the House now they have come up here and demand to be heard I say that they are not entitled to it, that this is a matter for the people of Polk county to settle, and that the vote of that corruption is not worthy to be counted

Mr HUMASON opposed fifty minutes speech in favor of the vote recently in Collins' case also he had been elected by fraud

A RUN ON THE HOUSE

Mr STOUFFER arose to a question of privilege and called attention to the editorial in the DAILY OREGONIAN of this morning entitled The Work Cut Out" in which it was stated that he had said that if $1—2 from Hindman named Carr He was examined and committed in default of $1500 bail to appear at the next session of the Circuit Court

Later.

In Account with A Johnson.

It would be especially interesting at this time to be favored with another Presidential opinion on the subject of "dead ducks." A discourse of this kind just now would be timely It would be peculiarly relevant to the situation It would, of course, refer to "the traitors at the Northern end of the line" In strict propriety, it would also abound in vituperative language concerning a "body hanging on the verge of the Government which assumes to be a Congress of the United States" It would relate how somebody had once been a tailor, how he had been an Alderman, how he had been sent to the Legislature, how he had been elected to Congress, how he had been a Senator of the United States, how he was once Military Governor of Tennessee, how he became Vice President, how he was made President by an electoral bullet, and how his own merit had obtained for him all these distinctions Nor would it stop here It would tell how "the humble individual who now addresses you" once had a policy which he was vain enough to suppose he could foist upon the people, and how he failed in it as signally as Jeff Davis and R E Lee did in their endeavor to establish a Southern Confederacy It would relate how the "humble individual" is now in a situation to wrap the mantle of his "policy" about him and lie down to mournful dreams, with the epitaph 'A Johnson, D D," to mark his resting place Truly it only needs a discourse on "dead ducks" to close the scene

"The Radicals in Congress do not represent the Union party," quoth A Johnson. So the Copperheads North and the Rebels South were appealed to as the great National Union organization which was to save the country from the "Radical destructionists" What is the response? Last spring New Hampshire and Connecticut and Oregon indicated what it would be A month ago Vermont and Maine came in with a like answer. And now Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, give their opinion as to whether the "Radicals in Congress represent the Union party" The victory is overwhelming Every loyal State goes against the President "Unmerciful disaster follows fast and follows faster" Next month the remainder of the Northern States will finish the work But the fate of "my policy" is settled now. The next month's elections will be but a mere form The reign of Johnsonism is at an end The next Congress will be as strongly Radical as the present one You who have complained of the Radicalism of the Thirty-Ninth Congress, how have an opportunity to judge what the fate of "Conservatism" will be in the Fortieth What you call "Radicalism" is destined to rule this country henceforth, and it is a good deal easier to submit to it at once than to rebel and be forced to submit at last

Johnson broke with the Union party and sought to overthrow it He has wrought his own fall No man ever met with so crushing a defeat The party of the Union rejects him Every State which had a voice in electing him Vice President, abandons him Eleven of the States had no share in his election, and the other twenty five now repudiate him The people want none of his policy. They insist that treason shall be made odious. This is the lesson of the elections. Well will it be for Johnson and his rebel friends if this fact is heeded. It depends wholly on his own behavior—on his submission to the mandates of the people—whether the person who is now President shall be permitted to complete his full term If he do not have a care, it may end in December

Put Down Again by a Plain Tale

The Herald continues to malign and lie about one of the Senators from this county—asserting that he was a cowardly skulker from the draft in time of the war, and that he fled to Oregon to escape it. Though we suppose that Senator is able to take care of his own reputation, especially in a contest with his senile maligner, we desire to mention a single circumstance connected with the case which will effectually confute all the assertions which have been made during the last six months about somebody being "a deserter from the draft" We are tired of hearing this thing repeated, and think it might as well be stopped now The person alluded to came out to Oregon in 1862, arriving here in the fall of that year The first conscription act was passed in March, 1863 At the time he left the East draft ing was not thought of Seward (whom the Democrats now swear by) was predicting that the war would end in "ninety days" At that time more men had offered their services than the Government could arm This story of a certain person "skulking out to Oregon to avoid the draft" is therefore all moonshine The anachronism of the story is so preposterous as to spoil it altogether The lump of senility that pres des over the columns of the Herald cannot even invent a falsehood that has the merit of plausibility

The individual who has risen successively by his own exertions from the comparatively humble position of Alderman to the exalted situation of President of the United States,' finds his descent much more easy than his ascent ever was He has said repeatedly that the measure of his ambition is full 'Tis well, for if it were not full it never would be

Can anybody perceive what advantage has been derived by the Democracy from the "bread and butter" coalition Two years ago the Democrats went alone and unaided, were beaten no worse than they are beaten now Where are the gains which their prophets foretold?

Will the States can give us another powerful "leader" denouncing that "Abolition horde" who carried the late elections? Now's the time Let 'em have it There is more cause than ever for lugubrious utterances now

SHANGHAIED.—Two adventurous tyros, seeking a respi from the wearying toil of type sticking and distributi concluded to take a voyage. Last night they se in search of a small sail boat. Sail boat search d Alder, after running, getting completely lo ashore by fisherman and the wind it will be remem ing. They were shortly about 11 A M yesterday. Possi Island, but smoothly down the river. The sail air remarkably equal to the task, however, the sail r not get out into the surging waters of the bar in t Mr. Wilkenstein, nothing daunted. With out hesitat they made all sail and a stern ponary halfway up and th way over. They went merrily singing A life on the sea, etc. Presently the breeze increased became a gale, and the aforesaid seamen saw that eternal vigi was said the aforesaid seamen saw that eternal vigi hour's use the piece of dry clothes. Then sail ere to it, a severe powerful assault the wind came rushing down upon them and their tiny bark was whisked about regardless of expense. This trip was a critical one ment, and they succeeded in taking in water though both left lately withdrawn from the Good Templars. Now it became very interesting to enquire how they were to get having arrived to the conclusion that, whether they'd get to the downward or not, they did not propose to meet sea in be drowned or not, they did not propose to meet their fancies" and fate just at that moment. After sev ral more efforts and sundry more duckings they were finally successful and succeeded in getting to the city on foot, sadder but wetter men

ARRIVED DISAPPEARANCE.—A lady registering her name as Mrs J Fleming, arrived at the Patton House with her three children—one a little girl of three years, and two boy girls aged respectively six and eight years. About 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning last she said to the landlord that she was going out to find a house to live in, and that with the youngest child. Since that time she has not returned, children dear. The landlord have seen no trace of the lady, and her sudden and mysterious disappearance is certainly unaccountable. By this means Mr Fleming finds his family considerably increased. It is supposed that she has abandoned the other two children with the unknown party. If this item should meet the notice of any of her friends, it is would confer a great favor on the children by looking after them

ARRIVAL OF THE D——.—The steamer Wilson G Hunt, bright down, last evening, a large number of passen on the others seem to be rapidly leaving the mines adopting winter quarters. Numbers go the States by the Salt Lake route, and we are informed that the press of travel at this time is greater than the stages can sup ply. Let the Chico route and the route by the Columbia river Parties have to purchase their tickets for days ahead.

CROWN.—In Recorder's Court, yesterday, George Mason was tried for committing a larceny upon the person of ——, on Front street, found guilty and sent to jail for ten days.——H S Haar, charged with kicking up a row on Second street, was tried on city charges and fined $20 and costs. He was also examined on the charge of burglary and robbery, and George Burnham, for permitting a vicious dog to run at large. The case will be heard to-morrow.

ARRIVAL.—The steam dredger, on yesterday, which went, broke the shovel. The cause of the disas ter was a large stone 220 feet long and with heavy roots. The shovel was successfully repaired and work was re sumed this morning.

ARRIVAL.—Were that Mr. C. H. Dodd, form ly of Rose City, California, intends establishing a large dry goods store at Salem. His stock arrived on the Senator, and the new store will soon be opened.

ARRIVAL.—This steamer last evening, brought but little freight. She reports. Left Portland at 3 to make an extra trip in the convenience of those who wished to attend the Grand Lodge of Oregon City.

THE RIOT.—The statement of the national [illegible] of a few days since in our telegraphic [illegible] was so muddled as to be quite unintelligible. On reconsulting the California papers, find that many of them had the figures in a [illegible] The Bulletin has taken some pains to correct these errors. It finds that the total amount of debt is $2,701,560,152. The coin in the Treasury amounts to $56,259,909, and the —— to $41 953 858. The amount of debt less cash in the Treasury is therefore $2 573,836 [illegible]. The reduction of the debt for September [illegible]

We hope, from reliable sources, that an important law suit will presently be brought before the County Court of this county, which will undoubtedly interest all owners of cur cottages. The plaintiff in this important case is the Oregon City Paper Co., and the defendant is C. M. Kester, Collector of Oregon City. The complaint sets forth that the said C. M. Kester is causing and will cause [illegible] to the said Paper Co.'s premises such as he [illegible] on his posts, vents, casts, shirts, etc., of such [illegible] material, in such a pernicious manner, that in fact those the Paper Co. will be forced to send East for [illegible] and thereby sustaining them much loss. Life's Leaves.

The following poem is touchingly beautiful. Many an eye will be dimmed by a tear as it reads these lines and the thoughts go wandering away to "memory's wildwood":

The day with its mandate dipped in dew,
Has passed through the evening's golden gates,
And a single star in the cloudless blue
For the rising moon in silence waits:
While the winds that sigh to the languid hours
A lullaby breathe o'er the folded flowers.

The lilies nod to the sound of the stream
That winds along with a lulling flow,
And either awake or half in a dream,
Float through the realms of long ago;
While face peer with many a smile
From the bowers of memory's magic isle.

There are joys and sunshine, sorrows and tears,
That check the path of life's April hours,
And a longing wish for the coming years,
That hope ever wreathes with the fairest flowers;
There are friendships guileless—love's as bright,
As pure as the stars in the halls of night.

There are ashen memories, bitter pain,
And buried hopes and a broken vow,
And aching heart by the restless main,
And the sea breeze fanning a pallid brow;
And a wandering on the shell-lined shore
Listning for voices that speak no more.

There are passions strong and ambitious wild,
And the fierce desire to stand in the van
Of the battle of life—and the heart of the child
Is crushed in the breast of the struggling man;
But short the regrets and few are the tears
That fall at the feet of the vanquished years.

There's a quiet and peace and domestic bow,
And joy arising from faith and truth,
And a love unquestioning, far above
The passionate dreamings of ardent youth;
And kisses of children on lip and cheek;
And the parent's bliss which no tongue can speak.

There are loved ones lost! There are little graves
In the distant dell, 'neath protecting trees,
Where the streamlet winds and the violet waves,
And the grasses sway to the sighing breeze;
And we mourn for the pressure of tender lips,
And the light of eyes darkened in death's eclipse.

And thus as the glow of daylight dies,
And the night's first look on the earth is cast,
I gaze 'neath those beautiful summer skies,
At the pictures that hang on the hall of the past;
On sorrow and joy chanting a mingled lay
When to memory's wildwood you wander away.

Are they Loyal.

The Johnson Convention says the Southern people are all thoroughly loyal. We clip from our exchanges the following samples of this loyalty. Speaking of the New Orleans massacre, the Mobile Tribune says:

"It was well done; even if five times or five hundred times the sacrifice of life had been made to accomplish the purpose, it would still have been well done."

Speaking of the election of Duval, the Mobile Register says:

"The defunct Confederacy seems not to be so very near dead in Kentucky after all."

And the same paper speaks of Union men thus:

"To have been a 'Union' man at the South, while war flamed from the swords and brands of our troops at our very hearthstones, was to have been an insensate brute, without one spark of the soul or one throb of the pulse of man. Thank God, we have no part of the guilt of those who, while war raged were 'traitors' to their hearths, neighbors, countrymen and States."

The Memphis Avalanche says:

"As God judges our heart, we intend to draw the sword and fling away the scabbard, in this struggle for the rights of an outraged people. We are preparing a careful list of all deniers or professional men who have publicly allied themselves with Brownlow, Stevens and their damnable crew. We intend to publish their names in emblazoned letters, giving vocation and location. So far as we can enable them to do so our people in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana shall know what merchants of Memphis are their friends and the friends of their rights and liberties; and who are their foes and foes of their children."

In a recent speech at Memphis, General Chalmers said of Jefferson Davis:

"He was bold to say he loved him now. [Loud cheers.] He is the greatest of living statesmen. Few have ever been his equal. [Cheers.] We are perhaps now in the midst of another revolution; it becomes every one to stand with his armor on. Republican institutions are now trembling in the balance. We of the South struck for individual liberty, but centralism overwhelmed us and endangers the liberty of the whole country. We have submitted to a Governor of not our choice, been insulted by our former slaves, and lost four thousand million dollars, worth of slaves, greater than the war debt of the North. And ought they to call upon us to pay their war debt?—[Reporters were privately requested to moderate the tone of the strong passages in this speech.] We see, however, a glorious summer in a son of Tennessee.—Johnson has struck for us. He and the Radicals are like duelists, or like gladiators with shield and scabbard thrown away, and are determined that one or the other must die."

The Louisville Journal unwittingly tells this significant truth when it says:

"The people of the South would rather not be represented at all in Congress than represented by such of their people as could get into that body under the operations of the test oath."

Henry A. Wise said in a recent speech in Virginia:

"You call the cause lost; it cannot lost. * * * If I am a traitor, let them make the most of it. If I am a traitor, why don't they try me and hang me? I have lost my lands and property, but I would clean boots on your streets sooner than bow to usurpation. If I had triumphed, I should have favored stripping them naked. [Laughter.] Pardon! They might have appealed for pardon, but I would have seen them damned before I would have granted it. For myself, I take no oath! I ask no pardons! [Prolonged cheers.]"

This to a large and enthusiastic audience, who cheered to the echo. [A week afterward, there comes from Washington the news that "the property of Henry A. Wise has been restored to him" by the President!]

The Houston Star says of Northern men:

"As for denouncing Yankees, that is a thing of the past. The English language no longer affords terms in which to curse a sniveling, weasen-faced piece of humanity, generally denominated a Yankee. We see some about here occasionally, but they skulk around, like sheep-killing dogs, and associate mostly with niggers; they whine and prate, and talk about the judgment of God, as if God had anything to do with them. Their brains, if they have any, are a mixture of shinplasters and nigger wool, and the souls of a thousand of them might be put on the point of a needle and thrust into the eye of a chigre, without causing that diminutive insect the least pain."

A dispatch from Mobile says:

"The project for establishing a Radical paper has been abandoned, as the editors would be mobbed, they having received several anonymous written letters."

Of the Convention at Philadelphia, the Richmond Examiner said in advance:

"Our delegates must insist resolutely at the outset that there shall be no offensive allusion to the heroic struggle in which our people have embarked, nor to the leaders of the movement. The South must enter that Convention, if at all, on a footing of entire and absolute equality and honor. She has nothing in her record to be ashamed of; nothing that she is ashamed of. She will not enter or sit in the Convention upon the stool of repentance."

And even after the Convention had done precisely what was demanded, omitted all "offensive allusion to the heroic struggle," and adopted an address encouraging the South to rebel again if its wishes were not granted at once, the Richmond Times says:

"The resolutions eulogistic of the Federal soldiery were not, we imagine, hailed with any especial enthusiasm by the Southern delegates whose houses had been burned, and lands laid waste by these immaculate patriots; nor can we be expected to feel keenly interested in the widows and orphans of those Federal soldiers who were slain by our armies, while every act of private charity to the widows and orphans of our own chivalrous dead is denounced as an exhibition of treason.

[From the Examiner.]

"Unless the test oath be put aside, we regard all talk about representation in Congress for the South as a hollow mockery. That the Northern people should think it right to tax us for the support of the widows and orphans of those who fought against us and desolated our land, is not singular; for they come of a selfish breed, and think little of the feelings of others. This exaction, we suppose, we must stand; but it is not right to call upon us to dishonor our gallant dead, and to trample on the feelings of the widows and orphans of the South by recognizing the services of the Federal soldiers and sailors in the late contest. The Southern delegates should join in this; that they should avow their readiness to tax all, including even the widows and orphans of the South, for this purpose, is, to us, utterly incomprehensible. There are some things which nature itself cannot brook, which no cold suggestion of policy will allow us to tolerate, and this is one of them."

[From the Enquirer.]

"We are astonished to read in the reports the declaration of Mr. Cowan that the resolutions were unanimously concurred in by the committee, and that both resolutions and address were unanimously adopted by the Convention. We protest in the name of our people, that they be considered no parties to the unanimous vote * * * It is impossible for us to give our assent to declarations which violate our convictions and brand us as criminals, while, before God and the world, we should spurn the accusations. The Southern delegates may have given their voices or subscribed their names to those papers, but they have not subscribed the names of their people."

The Augusta Constitutionalist talks of loyalty, day after day, in language much like the following from that paper of the 12th:

"There is an insidious and baneful belief abroad, that now we are beaten, we must relinquish all belief in those principles for which we would have died, and, 'not content with being law-abiding men, must strive as the Christian strives after virtue, to be unfeignedly "loyal." "Loyal," indeed! And to what and to whom? If I pay my taxes and bow in silence to the laws, and infringe no one article of my surrender, by what right is it that the Federal Government can ask me to do more? Am I to love it? Is it to search deep down into the bottom of my heart and, casting out the pallid bloodstained face of my dear friend who fell by my side in battle, is it to demand that I substitute a flag all over befouled with wrong and a blackguard despotism that daily affronts God by the villainies it does His poor and persecuted people? No! this thing of "loyalty" will not do for the Southern people."

Very loyal, these people!

That Proof.

[From the Unionist.]

The Indian Department's organ waxes very wroth because we dared to charge the friends of J. W. Nesmith with attempting bribery to secure his re-election to the United States Senate. The silly bumpkin who does the "editin'" for that versatile sheet, in his last issue exhausts the vocabulary of a London fish-monger in heaping abuse upon us. He denies that any attempt at bribery was made, and virtually challenges us to produce the proof. Now mark how plain a tale will set him down. The appended affidavit was made before C. L. Fisher, a Justice of the Peace in this city. The person who is charged with offering the bribe is, we are told, a cousin of Senator Nesmith's. Through that Senator's influence he has for several years held the office of Quartermaster for the Oregon Volunteers. We have no desire to pursue Senator Nesmith or his friends beyond their political graves, in which they may now be considered safely laid to rest; but if they desire it and insist upon it, we propose to give proof to their heart's content of all our statements they may choose to contradict. Here is the affidavit:

In Justice's Court of the State of Oregon, for County of Marion, Salem Precinct. C. L. Fisher, Justice of the Peace. The State of Oregon, plff. vs. D. W. Porter, dft. State of Oregon, County of Marion, ss.

I, Nassena M. McKean, being first duly sworn, and being upon my sworn oath, do say that on the 10th day of September, A. D. 1866, there was elected a legislative officer of the State of Oregon; that is to say, I was then and am now a member of the House of Representatives in the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon, elected to said office from the county of Grant, and on said day and now holding a seat in said House of Representatives of said Legislature, which Legislature was on said 10th day of September, 1866, in regular session; that while affiant was thus a legislative officer of this State, the defendant, D. W. Porter, at Salem, in the county of Marion, in the State of Oregon, in which county said Legislative Assembly was then convened, did on said 10th day of September, A. D. 1866, corruptly offer and promise to give to this affiant a valuable consideration—to wit, the sum of three thousand dollars in money—with intent to influence the affiant as such legislative officer in his official conduct, and with intent to influence this affiant as such officer, to act in his official capacity in a particular manner so as to produce a particular result; that is to say said defendant, D. W. Porter, did then and there offer and promise to give this affiant, the sum of three thousand dollars, provided affiant would resign his seat as such legislative officer in said House of Representatives of the State of Oregon, the object and intent of said defendant being, as he then stated to affiant, to elect Jas. W. Nesmith to the Senate of the United States, well knowing that affiant did not intend to cast his vote for said James W. Nesmith for such office; and the said D. W. Porter, as a further inducement to get this affiant to resign his seat in said Legislative Assembly, did at the same time and place corruptly promise this affiant, as such officer, to put this affiant in the way to obtain the position of Indian Agent in the State of Oregon, stating at the same time that he had it in his power to procure for affiant such appointment; and further, that he (the said) would convey this affidavit to the city of Portland by the hour of eight o'clock A. M., of this day, all of which was corruptly and feloniously done and promised by said D. W. Porter, with the intent to induce this affiant to resign his said office of member of the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon, and with the hope and intent of thereby securing the election of James W. Nesmith to the Senate of the United States by said Legislative Assembly, all of which was contrary to the statutes in such case made and provided!

The Grand Army of the Republic and the President's Appointments.

HEAD'S POST OF LINCOLN (Ill.), G. A. R.,
September 3, 1866.

At a meeting of the Lincoln Post, Grand Army of the Republic, held at their quarters on Monday, September 3, 1866, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has come to the knowledge of the members of this Encampment that the President, in contradiction to his declared policy to protect the interests of the soldiers and sailors and appoint them to positions of trust and emolument, has appointed David T. Littler Collector of Internal Revenue and Edward L. Merritt Pension Agent for this district, both positions of trust and profit, in opposition to the sentiments and petitions of the soldiers and Union-loving people of this community, said Litler and Merritt having done nothing for and much against the late struggle for the preservation of our free institutions; and whereas, the President has proved recreant to the confidence placed in him by the loyal people of the country, and to the principles upon which he was elected Vice-President, and has indorsed the cause and sentiments and is endeavoring to palliate the dark deeds of treason entertained and performed by the damnable and cowardly Copperheads of the North and blood-stained rebels of the South, and has drawn around him a constituency of the vilest rebels—men who willify the soldiers and heap epithets of disgrace on them and the cause for which they fought—and has, in a late speech delivered in New York city, declared that the members of Congress who stood by us during the war were now the traitors and enemies of the country, and that she was fighting them as he did the Confederates before Richmond and Petersburg, and claimed that he (Andrew Johnson) whipped the rebels in the campaign to Richmond, thereby endeavoring to rob the soldiers of the honor that justly belongs to them and shines as a halo of glory around the memories of our country's dead, among whom is our beloved and martyred President; and whereas, it has become the duty of every soldier and loyal citizen to defend the principles for which we have sacrificed so much, and to labor earnestly for the solemn, conspiring policy of the President and his rebel supporters and Copperhead confederates; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we heartily indorse the resolutions adopted by the Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Springfield (Ill.), as expressing the sentiments of this Encampment.

Resolved, That Andrew Johnson has forfeited his pledges to make treason odious by the appointment of said Littler and Merritt, and by his avowed sympathy with the rebels, he has dishonored and disgraced the soldiers and the cause for which they labored by the denunciation of Congress as enemies to the country he has alienated himself from every heart and added infamy to disgrace; and that his infamous and infatuated schemes are more becoming an inebriate and fanatic than the Chief Magistrate of the people.

Resolved, That Andrew Johnson, in his New York speech, insulted the soldiers, sailors and loyal citizens of this country; that he ratified the acts of the rebels perpetrated during the war and instigated a spirit of rebellion and revolution which must eventually end in open hostilities or bring disgrace and ruin upon the country.

Resolved, That a copy of the preamble and resolutions adopted by this Encampment be published in the Chicago Tribune, Springfield Journal, Lincoln Intelligencer and Lincoln Herald as an expression of our unfaltering purpose to make treason odious, and that we stand by and indorse the acts of our loyal Congress and are willing to defend the principles here expressed in the future as we have in the past.

Such expressions of feeling on the part of the true and faithful soldiery of Illinois indicate very clearly the extent to which they have been influenced by "my policy!" and are, also, very fair portends of the course they will pursue at the approaching election.

A NUISANCE.—We love music—always did love it. We agree with Shakespeare that "He that hath no music in his soul is only fit for treason, stratagem," &c. In fact we are so ardently fond of music that we can listen with some degree of pleasure to the squealing of a tom cat or the grunting of a dyspeptic swine with his head in a snack in the fence, or the sling of a mill saw. But if the fellow that toots that horn so incessantly in the sanctum of the Statesman office will "hold up" we will vote for him for the U. S. Senate, when we get to the Legislature. We will, by ginger.—Unionist.

STATE ITEMS.

It is said that on both sides of the Malding ridge between Burnt river and Wilson creek, and for a distance of more than twenty miles in length, gold is known to exist in paying quantities, and in some places, in quantities that would pay hand's wages. The great drawback is want of water. The country is high and dry; and such is its altitude and its distance from any considerable stream that it is doubtful if much of the gold will ever be obtained. Some mining will however, be done next spring while the snow is melting off, but the supply of water cannot last over three weeks at farthest.

A band of Indians recently appeared near Glover's ferry on Snake river, and came near capturing a band of horses there. The thieves rode within thirty yards of the corral, when the cries gave the alarm. They soon stopping at the place got out their guns and fired at the Indians, driving them off, but not getting any of them.

A correspondent writes us that in some of the valleys of Burnt river, as fine vegetables have been raised this season as were ever seen anywhere. That country has usually been thought to be at too great an altitude to allow of successful farming.

FROM IDAHO.

A private letter from Rocky Bar, South Boise, furnishes the Idaho Statesman with the following items:

John Green, Superintendent of Waddingham & Co.'s mills, has arrived, and says he will have the mill running again in two weeks.

The Idaho Company also purpose to go to work again.

The old Carter Co.'s mill has again changed its directory, and will be set to crushing rock soon.

Mr. Bosson also intends to start their mill immediately.

The N. Y. I. S. M. Co.'s mill is to be sold on the 15th inst., at sheriff's sale. The liens on it are about $12,000, and there is a good chance for mill men to buy a first class ten-stamp battery with amalgamators and settlers complete, all new; also mill buildings and other parts of the mill made in the country, for less than the cost and freight of the battery, engine, boiler and pans.

From Yuba we learn that Defrees & Co. and M. G. Brown are getting their machinery ready as rapidly as possible.

It is said that Mr. Bosson had money to pay off all debts, and Mr. Green had the means to set their mill to work again in good shape. Nothing of Mr. Francis, of the Victor company, yet.

NOAH BROOKS, late Naval Agent at San Francisco, having been solicited to aid the great cause of "Morea," by the Chairman of Johnson's Executive Committee, returned a sharp reply, from which we copy the following extract.

In the language of the lately distinguished Secretary Seward, I am surprised that you should ask such a thing of me; or, rather, I should be surprised if it were not evident that in availing yourself of the machinery of official patronage an unpracticed hand has been laid upon the wires. My "official relations with the President," to which you so delicately refer, have ceased to exist. Those relations commenced on the 4th of March, 1865, when it became my official duty, as an independent journalist, and eye witness of that extraordinary spectacle, to record the fact that Andrew Johnson, when sworn into office as Vice President of the United States, was very drunk. This shameful bit of history obtained the cheap immortality of print, and a copy of the Sacramento Union containing it was lately brought to the notice of his Excellency by one of those kind friends with whom every honest man is blessed. I was accordingly removed from office, and our relations were abruptly terminated by the act of A. Johnson himself. He may possibly think that my removal may remotely affect the fact that he was intoxicated as aforesaid, but an intelligent public will not see it in that light.

The undersigned avails himself of this opportunity to suggest that the enlightenment of the public mind to which you refer seems already to have spread to such an alarming extent that the small tribute which my former associates in official position might yield would be wastefully invested if used to circulate the large number of documents spoken of in your esteemed favor of no date. Recent events indicate that the aforesaid momentous contest, in which the friends and supporters of Andrew Johnson are engaged, is essentially determined already—at least, so far as the people against the President may decide. The eleven judicious individuals who compose the "National Union Party" of California severally admit "the country is going radical in the most dreadful manner."

SARTOR RESARTUS.—A great deal of curiosity has been excited by Andrew Johnson's declaration to the tailors who waited on him in Philadelphia, that "Our Great Father, the Lord of the World, was a tailor by trade." For the benefit of those who are not enough skilled in Scriptural exegesis to fathom his meaning, it is suggested that the "Great Father" referred to is the "Father of Lies," the "God of this World," whose trade is, as everybody knows, going about sowing tares—a sort of itinerant tailor!

THE LAST VOLUME.—George Bancroft, the historian, is about to publish the last volume of his History of the United States.

DANFORD'S

Atmospheric Coal Oil Gas Lamp!

AN ARTIFICIAL LIGHT OF SOME SORT, IS A UNIversal necessity. A Safe, Cheap and Brilliant one is a Luxury—a luxury only enjoyed heretofore by those who live in large cities where Gas is used. Years of study and much capital have been exhausted in experiments to produce a lamp wherein the ordinary Kerosene or Coal Oil could be used without a chimney, and without unpleasant odor while in use. That fruitful source of expense, trouble and annoyance, the chimney, is in DANFORD'S COAL OIL GAS LAMP avoided; it is the most perfect Lamp and will entirely supersede all other Coal Oil Lamps; it is the cheapest artificial light that can be used, yielding the light of an ordinary six foot Gas burner for less than ½ cent per hour, or double the quantity of light of an ordinary Chimney Lamp, for one third the cost. It will burn when turned down to a taper-light, ten hours for a cent, is free from smoke, can be carried from room to room and the wind will not blow it out. These LAMPS will be on exhibition and for sale at the Music and Art Gallery of Shindler & Dufrene, corner of Morrison and First streets.

making less than two fifths of the real amount said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in Gold, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantages of the times to convert a few dollars to himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. The public can readily see how much it costs to have such establishments costly buildings as the one referred to above.
